

RACE NOTES

SUNDAY 3.15.26 | 7:00 AM | NEW YORK CITY | NYRR.ORG

ABOUT THE RACE

The United Airlines NYC Half, known as the One to Run, is one of 60 annual adult and youth races produced by New York Road Runners (NYRR), the nonprofit that “runs” New York City. First held in 2006, the United Airlines NYC Half has been the world’s premier half marathon for two decades and is the country’s largest, with a record-breaking 28,709 finishers in 2025.

TOP STORYLINES

- Bright Lights, Big City: Paying homage to an iconic city, the United Airlines NYC Half will take more than 30,000 runners from around the world on a 13.1-mile park-to-park tour, starting near Prospect Park in Brooklyn and ending in Central Park, by the TCS New York City Marathon finish line. For the second year in a row, the course will take athletes across the Brooklyn Bridge—the only race in history to do so—before passing Grand Central Terminal and running through Times Square—one of two times a year the Crossroads of the World is closed to traffic.
- Professional Athletes Take On NYC: The 2026 United Airlines NYC Half features a stacked professional athlete field, including three defending champions—Abel Kipchumba and Sharon Lokedi of Kenya, and Geert Schipper of the Netherlands—27 Olympians and Paralympians, 16 national record holders, 10 global medalists, and athletes from 17 countries. Other top names taking on the streets of New York City include two-time U.S. Olympic bronze medalist Grant Fisher making his road racing and half marathon debut, and defending TCS New York City Marathon champion Hellen Obiri. The wheelchair division will also feature Paralympians and former United Airlines NYC Half podium finishers Tatyana McFadden, Eden Rainbow-Cooper, and Daniel Romanchuk.
- City Agencies Compete: Runners representing seven different New York City agencies and the Mayor’s Office, including the three-time defending champions from the NYPD, will compete for the fourth-annual United Airlines NYC Half Commissioner’s Cup. The friendly competition highlights the decades-long partnership between nonprofit New York Road Runners and city agencies. Participating agencies include NYPD, FDNY, NYC Parks, NYC DOT, DSNY, NYC Environmental Protection, New York City Public Schools, and the NYC Mayor’s Office.
- Notable and Inspiring Runners: This year’s United Airlines NYC Half will feature several notable and inspiring runners, including: Justin Britt, retired NFL offensive lineman who is coached by professional runner Emily Venters; Jordan Litz, former Fiyero in “Wicked” on Broadway; N.O.R.E., hip hop artist; Tiki Barber, New York Giants legend; Brandon Allmon-Jackson, Broadway stage manager diagnosed with stage four colon cancer in December and running with Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS; Kade Cahe, sustainability advocate and nonbinary athlete running with NYRR Team for Climate; Safiatu Diagana, Queens-based NYRR Run for the Future alum running her first half marathon while fasting for Ramadan; and Julia Khvasechko, a brain cancer survivor who is running as an NYRR pacer and has fundraised for Fred’s Team at Memorial Sloan Kettering, where she was treated.
- The Next Generation: In addition to the 30,000 adult runners, more than 1,500 kids ages 2 to 18 will participate in the Times Square Kids Run, one of 20 free youth events New York Road Runners hosts throughout the year. Participants will run one-mile races and short dashes in the heart of Times Square, alongside the professional athletes and adult half marathoners. Times Square Kids Run athletes will include members of Rising New York Road Runners, NYRR’s free youth program that serves more than 200,000 students nationwide, including nearly 100,000 in New York City.
- New Expo: For the first time, New York Road Runners will host the United Airlines NYC Half Expo Presented by New Balance at the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center, which is also home to the TCS New York City Marathon Expo. Runners will be greeted by United Airlines flight attendants as they pick up their bibs and race souvenirs, while catching course strategy sessions from New York Road Runners coaches, grabbing official race merchandise from New Balance, and enjoying various sponsor activations.
